2. Buglers.—Buglers are a section of the Technical Branch but do not hold a specialist qualification.

3. Plurality of Specialist Qualifications.—Owing to the conditions of service of Royal Marines, a man may be required to hold two Specialist Qualifications. In this case the man will be paid for the highest qualification he holds irrespective of his appointment. Plurality will be strictly limited; no man may hold more than one 1st Class Specialist Qualification.

4. Qualifications.—The Appendix to this Order shows the conditions governing the award of Specialist Qualifications, other than to Tradesmen, in the Royal Marines.

5. With the exception of Printers who are qualified in accordance with Admiralty requirements, Tradesmen are awarded specialist qualifications on passing the relevant Test laid down in Army Trade Regulations and Trade Tests 1943.

6. National Service.—National Service Ranks are eligible for certain specialist qualifications as laid down in Royal Marines Routine Orders. The rules for payment for qualifications are laid down in Article 504 of B.R. 1950.

7. 2nd Class Specialist Qualifications.—The following special regulations apply to 2nd Class, Specialist Qualifications :—

(a) AE, CL, SC, S, HW, LH.—In view of the leadership qualities required, ranks must normally be at least candidates for promotion before selection to undergo a course. Ranks who are not candidates for promotion, may be selected, however, provided that they are specially recommended by their Commanding Officers.

(b) Drill Instructors, PW, PT.—In view of the instructional aspect of these S.Qs., ranks will normally be required to have passed for promotion to Corporal before selection to undergo a course. Men who have not passed for promotion may be selected, however, provided that they are candidates for promotion and are specially recommended by their Commanding Officers. Ranks who are not candidates for promotion may be selected only with the approval of the Commandant General, Royal Marines.
