Silk embroidered Red letters on Blue silk tape.
Manufactured by CASH'S. As issued for wearing on B/D.

Embroidered on felt - Red letters on Dark Blue.
Not worn officially - purchased privately. There are a number of variations of 'unofficial' titles - some with plain lettering and some with serifs. The Corps Museum has a specimen Blue letters on Red... doubtless a manufacturer's error.

Embroidered on felt. Red letters on Dark Blue.
As issued from 1946 and still worn to date (1976) on Jersey Heavy Wool.

Silk embroidered Red letters on Blue silk tape.
Manufactured by CASH'S. Issued for wear on B/D during WW and worn, when applicable, under ROYAL MARINES title (Fig

Silk embroidered Red letters on Blue silk tape.
Manufactured by CASH'S, these numerals ranged from 40-48 inclusive. Worn during WW2 above ROYAL MARINES title

Embroidered on felt - Red on Dark Blue arc.
Of similar design there was also No.45.

Embroidered on felt - Red dagger on Dark Blue segment.
Initially issued during WW2 for wearing with Royal Marine Commando insignia. There was a printed version also.

Printed - Red on Blue.

Embroidered on felt. Red on Dark Blue.

N.B. The shape of Figures 8 and 9 varied from circular to square with rounded top - either printed or embroidered or vice versa and were worn by all members of the Armed Forces serving in Combined Operations Command.
The signs were worn in pairs by Royal Marines (with SAG facing forwards) on B/D and, in WW2, on No.1 Dre.
Some RM Commando formations continued to wear this sign in preference to the 'Commando Dagger' sign (which was issued later) eg. 41 RM Commando.

Yellow trident embroidered on Red felt segment.
Following the disbanding of RM DIVISION this sign was discontinued until 1945. It was then adopted by 116 (RM)
Infantry Brigade (formed 4 Jan 45) comprising 27, 28 and 30 Royal Marine Battalions.

Figure 11. Sign 104 RM TRAINING BRIGADE (and later ROYAL MARINES TRAINING GROUPS (DEVON) and (WALES)).
Worn by Permanent Staff of these Training Establishments.
Yellow Seahorse embroidered on Blue disc, on Red segment.
"Known within the Corps as the 'Pregnant Prawn'".

Yellow fouled anchor on Red disc, on Yellow eight-pointed Star on khaki square. (Two versions- embroidered or printed)
"Although the sign was adopted by 117(RM)Inf.Bde. it was not generally issued - except to one or two Companys. It was however, in general use as a Vehicle marking (ie. painted on mudguards etc.)" 117(RM)Inf.Bde. (formed 15 Jan 45) comprised 31, 32 and 33 Royal Marine Battalions.

Red figures woven on small khaki square.
Worn over ROYAL MARINES title (Fig.1.). Of a similar design there was also 32 and 33.

Embroidered on felt. Yellow fouled anchor, on Red segment with narrow Yellow border, on blue shield.

Printed. Yellow grenade, Green rope fouled on Red anchor, on a Blue shield.

Polar Bear embroidered on Blue, Yellow, Green, Red and Blue diagonal striped cloth circle.
"This sign may have been spurious or worn unofficially - former MNBD0 personnel are unable to recall ever seeing a cloth sign, such as this, worn. There has been mention that the design 'may' have been painted on Vehicles and Direction Boards, although examples of Christmas Cards do exist which display the sign.
Correspondence with former members of MNBD0 has revealed that Units of the Organization were identified (on uniform) by geometrical shapes of 'cut-out' cloth - either Red, Green, Yellow and Blue plus some other colours.

For example:

■	Squares denoted 2 Air Defence Bde HQ and GOR and 3 and 4 AA Regiments and Batteries.
◆	Diamonds " 12 Searchlight Regiment and Batteries.
▲	Triangles " 2 Coast Artillery Regiment or Batteries.
○	Circles " Landing and Maintenance Unit
	" MNBD0 Group Signals.

These applied to MNBD0 II (although the shapes allotted to other Units of MNBD0 II.... Survey etc. are not mentioned

Felt strip approx. 2" x 1" White/Blue.
This form of identification was usually only worn by the Royal Corps of Signals.

Worn by Officers, seconded to the Royal Marines during WW2.

Red letters embroidered on Blue felt. On K/D slip-on.
Issued for wearing on Tropical shirts during WW2 and Post-war.

Red grenade woven on Khaki.
Another, probably 'Unit made' sign, was Red 'cut-out' shape of grenade on khaki backing.

Worn by Probationary Cadets RM at RM Pre-OCTU Deal and Brownlow.

Red letters embroidered on Blue arc and bar.
The first pattern title worn by the RLFVR in 1948 - replaced later by Figures 23 and 24.

Silk embroidered Red letters on Blue silk tape.
Manufactured by CASH'S. The second pattern title of R.F.V.R and worn below ROYAL MARINES title (Fig.1.)

Embroidered on felt. Red letters on Dark Blue.
Worn beneath ROYAL MARINES COMMANDO title (Fig.3.) by all Ranks of the RLFVR who completed the Basic Commando Course

Embroidered on felt. Red letter on Dark Blue.
Replaced Figures 23 and 24, on the change of title RLFVR to Royal Marines Reserve (1966)

Embroidered on felt (all in one piece) Red letters on Blue

Embroidered on felt (all in one piece) Red letters, with serifs, on Dark Blue.

Gold wire letters and border, surmounted by St. Edward's Crown, on Blue. For wear on No.1 Dress.
Of a similar design, but slightly smaller and on Green, for wear on No.2 Dress (Lovat), and Red on Blue.
Worn by the Band of Portsmouth Division, Portsmouth Group RM, and Royal Marines Detachments in the Royal Yacht.
The Tudor Crown type was only issued in Gold on Blue and Red on Blue variations.

Red cloth/felt 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ " x 1".
Awarded to signify Recruit Section Commanders at the Depot or during final training at ITCRM. Towards the end of training all Recruit Section Commanders go before the King's Badge Board - the best all-round Marine usually receives the King's Badge.

Issued in Gold on Blue, Red on Blue, Khaki woven on Khaki on K/D., Gold on Red (for Mess kit) and Gold on Green. Worn at the point of the left shoulder, on all Dress (with the exception of Shirt sleeve order and Working dress) throughout the recipients entire career.

Instituted in 1918 by HM King George V., irrespective of the Reigning Monarch the Royal Monogram (centre) is always GvR.

Worn during period of detachment, from KNBDO II, when 12 S/L Regiment RM were engaged in Defence of Plymouth during Blitz 1940/41. Continued worn on return to KNBDO I.

Corps colours Blue, Yellow, Green, Red, Blue 'made up' of strips of cloth.

Corps ribbon Blue, Yellow, Green, Red, Blue.

Sketches of Figures 32 and 33 are to accurate scale. Worn on Bush hats or Topees.

Red letters with serifs on Dark Blue.

Specimen sketched was worn by Rev. Maurice A.P. Wood, DSC.LA when Chaplain to 44 RM Cdo. and was manufactured in Poone (India) pre-1943. In addition his Shoulder insignia included Black Maltese Cross over CHAPLAIN (on K/D slip-on shoulder strap), title ROYAL NAVY (over RM title) and, below these was COMMANDO DAGGER (Fig.7). Rev. Wood later became Chaplain to 48 RM Cdo. Now (1976) Bishop of Norwi

Figure 35. Numeral 30 ASSAULT UNIT RM. (sometimes called 30 Commando) Embroidered on felt. Light Blue figures on Dark Blue (or Black) oblong. A 'Unit made', possibly stencilled, varies also exists.

Worn in CMF in conjunction with ROYAL MARINES and COMMAND titles. On return to UK, in preparation for D.Day, the title COMMANDO was 'taken down'.

Silver wire parachute, Blue embroidered wings, Green frog with White chest and Yellow mouth. Frog 'holding' Gold wire paddles and floating on Green (Lily ?) leaves. Green 'S.B' on Yellow ribbon with Gold wire edged scroll.

Printed. Black RM., RA. and R.E.M.E. badges. Red dagger with Black winged hilt guard. On Green circle. Red, White, Red border with Red rope in centre. Red letters on White scrolls with Red edges. The whole on a Black background. Taken into use late 1960's/1970.

ADDITIONAL RM. INSIGNIA.

Following consultation with War Artists, and from their 'On the Spot' notes made during WW2., and from conversations with former members of the Royal Marine Battalions - the following details are available concerning RM.Battalion's Insignia worn circa 1940-43.

The cloth strips 'cut out' to form Roman numerals appear to have been cut from old Infantry Red (possibly old RMLI) tunic. From specimens in my own collection the size of the numerals were approx. 1" tall by  $\frac{1}{4}$ " wide. Some were sewn onto a khaki serge backing prior to sewing onto tunic sleeves - others were sewn directly onto the sleeves.

|| 1 Royal Marines Battalion.

"Information from several former members of the Battalion"

|| 2 Royal Marines Battalion.

"Seen worn with Trident sign (of RM Division - Fig.10) July 1940 Seen without Trident sign - in 1940 and Oct. 1941".

|| 3 Royal Marines Battalion.

"Seen 19 July 1941".

V 5 Royal Marines Battalion.

"Seen 22 September 1941.

VII 7 Royal Marines Battalion.

"From my own collection - sewn onto a khaki backing"
"Originally believed that 7 Bn wore a 'cut out' Arabic '7' - this specimen has now proved that they, like all the other Bns, wore Roman numerals"

VIII 8 Royal Marines Battalion.

"Seen worn with Trident sign (of RM Division - Fig.10)
29 May 1942. Seen without Trident sign 21 October 1941"

IX 9 Royal Marines Battalion.

"Seen worn with Trident sign 29 May and in July 1942".

X 10 Royal Marines Battalion.

"Information from a former member of the Battalion".

XV 15 Royal Marines (Machine Gun) Battalion.

"Seen 22 April 1942"

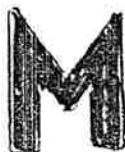

N.B. There was not a 4th Bn or 6th Bn during WW2. In WW1 the 4th Royal Marines Battalion had won imperishable fame at Zeebrugge and in honour of its achievement it was decided that there should never be another 4th Bn. (Ref. "The Marines were there" by Sir Robt.Bruce Lockhart.)

No information available regarding 11 Royal Marines Battalion insignia - the 11th Bn were the Land Defence Force of LNBDO I.

ROYAL MARINES INSIGNIA - QUERIES.

Although the following sketches were noted, during WW2 by War Artists, so far they have not been completely identified.

Any ROYALS who know "what" the signs represent - or even wore them - are kindly requested to contact the writer. So much the better if such information could be accompanied by actual specimens of the signs.
